WORLD CRISIS
AT HAND, SAYS
POPE PIUS XIICOMMUNISM SEEN AS MENACE TO CHRISTIANITY

BY JOHN P. MCKNIGHT
Vatican City, March 29 (P)—Pope Pius XII says Italy and the world are at the crossroads in the contest over Communism.

"The great hour of Christian conscience has sounded," proclaimed the head of the Roman Catholic church in a noonday Easter blessing yesterday.

The white-clad Pontiff spoke from a balcony of St. Peter's, the world's biggest church. Some 400,000—equal to a fourth of Rome's population—heard him from the sunlit square below.

His talk came little more than three weeks before Italy's April 18 election test between Communism and its foes. His listeners, mostly Italian, outnumbered any political gathering to date.

Agitators At Work
He did not mention Communism by name. But hearers plainly caught the meaning of his references to "demons of the night" and "agitators who make the negation of Christ the cornerstone of their work."

"Over this multitude of believing Rome there lies almost a shadow of singular gravity," said the Pope.

"Rome now finds herself before, or better, in the midst of, a turning of the times which requires of the head and members of Christianity the highest vigilance, untiring alertness and unconditional action."

He reminded his audience of the "terrible verdict" of Jesus Christ: "Who is not with Me is against Me."

"In your conscience, aroused to full understanding of your responsibility, there is no place for blind credulity towards those who at first are abundant with affirmations."

Fast Time Becomes Official In Detroit
Effective April 24

Detroit, March 29 (P)—Mayor Eugene I. Van Antwerp today signed an ordinance which makes daylight saving time effective here April 24.

A number of neighboring communities have indicated they may follow Detroit's lead.

The city council passed the ordinance 7-2 on March 23. It provides that clocks be advanced one hour at midnight April 24. They will be moved back Sept. 26.

Van Antwerp said he personally was opposed to daylight saving time "because it keeps kids up later in the evening than is good for them." But, he added, the "international situation" led him to sign the measure.

BURNED TO DEATH
Detroit, (P)—John Dunn, 62, an odd jobs man, was burned to death Sunday when his trailer caught fire from an overheated stove. The trailer was parked in Livonia township.

Foreign Aid
Bill Backed
By 3-1 Vote

Washington, March 29 (P)—The House Foreign Affairs committee gave its backing today to a foreign aid bill amendment to put extra controls on exports of strategic supplies to Russia.

Rep. Mundt (R-SD), said the committee voted "overwhelmingly" to support his amendment to the $6,205,000,000 bill giving the foreign administrator the right to veto any exports to Russia and her satellites when he considers it "in the national interest."

The committee acted shortly before the bill rolled into the show-down voting stage on the House floor.

Passage is scheduled for Wednesday at the latest. It may come by tomorrow night. House leaders say the margin will be at least three to one, with no more than 80 to 100 opposition votes.

As the foreign aid bill started running the gamut of amendments, the man who holds the military purse strings in the House jumped to its support as a vital defense measure.

Rep. Albert J. Engel (R-Mich.) sized up worsening Soviet-American relations and said he had reached the conclusion that:

"The United States must 'make reasonable military preparations.'"

The pre-war military power of friendly nations must be restored, within five, 10 or 20 years, he added, so that "added to our own it will spell defeat to any nation which dares to threaten the free government of any other nation."

STRIKE HALTED
BY MAC ARTHUR

Labor Troubles Spread Rapidly In Japan

Tokyo, March 29 (P)—General MacArthur invoked a general strike ban today to halt rapidly spreading walkouts by Japanese government workers.

He specifically instructed Japanese officials to prevent a threatened strike by an estimated 400,000 communications employees.

They spearheaded a quit walk movement by nearly 1,000,000 government workers.

Maj. Gen. W. F. Marquat, chief of MacArthur's economic and scientific section, declared in a memorandum the threatened nationwide communications strike, set for Wednesday, would have a "drastically unfavorable impact upon the economic recovery and public welfare" of the nation.

The strike, said Marquat, is subject to provisions of MacArthur's Jan. 31, 1947 ban which prevented a similar planned general strike.

Marquat's memorandum did not mention employees other than communications.

All workers have been demanding increased cost of living bonuses, officials predicted that if the communications walkout folded, the others would stay on the job.

Girl, 9, Leads 1,000
In Prayer of Peace

Valley Stream, N. Y., March 29 (P)—A nine-year-old girl stood on the stage of the high school auditorium last night and led more than 1,000 persons in a community prayer for peace.

A line at a time, they chanted after her:

"We beseech thee, O living Father, teach our minds to think, help our hearts to feel, make our bodies act, that peace shall prevail. Amen."

A Protestant clergyman and a Rabbi participated in the three-hour service, planned by various groups in this Long Island village of 20,000 as the start of a worldwide movement for peace.

Copies of the prayer were mimeographed in ten languages and will be sent to friends and relatives overseas.

Railroads Face New
Pay Raise Demands

Chicago, March 29 (P)—New wage and working rule demands on the nation's railroads appeared in prospect today.

While three operating brotherhoods summoned representatives to a Wednesday meeting to consider the 15½-cent hourly wage increase recommended by a presidential fact-finding board, two other unions met for talks on further gains.

There was a hint of disappointment with the fact-finding board's recommendation on the part of at least one official of the three unions involved.

D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, said in Cleveland that the recommended wage boost "leaves us 15 per cent worse off than we were when the last wage increase went into effect in June, 1946."

He added that the "railroads themselves figured the recommended increase as one of 11 per cent, whereas the cost of living has gone up 16.6 per cent since June, 1946."

In addition to the wage boost, the board also recommended adoption of 37 changes in working rules sought by the railroads and unions.

OFFICER KILLED

Nude Body Found In Lot
At Paterson, N. J.

Paterson, N. J., March 29 (P)—A series of fresh tire marks gave police their major clue today in the search for the slayer of attractive, blonde Mrs. Sarah Donohue, a Paterson policeman's wife, whose nearly nude body was found in a vacant lot yesterday morning.

Police said the tire marks were found on a little-used road near the lot where Mrs. Donohue's battered body was found by a railroad gatekeeper walking to work.

The body may have been thrown from a car into the thick underbrush, police said.

The slain woman was the wife of radioprotectant Timothy J. Donohue, 39. The husband said he last saw her at 8 p. m. Saturday when she left the house for a visit to her cousin, Mrs. Edna De Rosa.

The slain woman bore finger-marks around her neck, but McGrath said police were waiting for autopsy report to determine whether she had been raped and how she died.

The Donohues, who had been married 17 years, had no children.

Weather Holds Up
Reynolds Expedition

Peiping, March 29 (P)—Bad weather grounded the Reynolds scientific expedition here today.

In search of a mountain higher than Everest, the Reynolds' plane had been scheduled to make its first survey flight around the Anne Machin range in northwest China. Another attempt will be made tomorrow.

MALAY SULTAN DEAD
Singapore, March 29 (P)—Dispatches from Lumut today said Sultan Abdul Perak died yesterday. He was 61 years old.

CERTAIN VETO
ON TAX SLASH
BILL AWAITED

PRESIDENT HOPES
HE CAN CHANGE
SOME VOTES

BY FRANCIS M. LEMAY
Washington, March 29 (P)—The only question left over the $4,800,000,000 tax cut bill is when—not what will happen.

A veto is regarded as certain. Equally assured, in the minds of many Democrats as well as Republicans, is that the tax-slashing measure will become law, notwithstanding President Truman's objection.

Rep. Knutson (R-Minn.), author of the legislation, told reporters he expects the president to delay "as long as possible," in the expectation that the international situation may change some votes.

But several administration officials have predicted privately that Mr. Truman will act swiftly on the bill, perhaps today or tomorrow.

The chief executive has until April 5, a week from today, to act. The bill was put on his desk last Wednesday.

Some lawmakers still believe a veto message stressing the need for big spending—around $4,000,000,000 immediately—for military preparedness in the global stop-Communism policy, might change enough votes to sustain the veto.

No Signs Of Defeat
But there were no definite signs of vote shifts.

Furthermore, some of those who said to look for an early message said the president in all probability will not link his defense requests to the tax bill action.

A two-thirds vote in both chambers is necessary to overturn a veto. On the final showdowns before the bill was sent to the White House, the Senate had 18 votes to spare and the House 51.

Several lawmakers supporting the bill have said that if an emergency vote shifts.

New York Curb and Stock Exchanges
Picketed By Union

New York, March 29 (P)—The New York Stock and Curb Exchange's union employees went on strike today, but exchange members kept early trading moving at about normal pace under emergency measures.

The financial Employees Union (AFU) threw picket lines around the exchanges shortly after 8 a. m. The lines were heavily reinforced with members of the Sailors and Seamen's unions.

Brokers entered the exchanges, however, and the quotations began flowing through on the ticker tapes without apparent interruption.

There was a large crowd of brokers, clerks and runners on the stock exchange floor as the opening bell sounded at 10 a. m.

Both exchanges suspended operations of their internal quotation bureaus, but members obtained the quotations from the floor.

Ceiling in Theater
Collapses, 30 Hurt

Kansas City, Kas., March 29 (P)—A section of ceiling collapsed in a small neighborhood theater last night, injuring 30 persons.

None was reported injured dangerously and only four were hospitalized.

Donald Martin, the theater manager, said there was no panic but "a lot of screaming" among the 200 patrons. The theater—the Osage—has a seating capacity of about 900.

The plaster fell on about 50 seats at the rear of the theater. The collapsed section was about 40 feet long, 20 feet wide and an inch and a half thick.

The night's program included the movie, "Out of the Blue."

The theater is two miles south of the main Kansas City, Kas., business district.

Dewey Schedules
Milwaukee Speech

Albany, N. Y., March 29 (P)—Governor Dewey will deliver four speeches in Wisconsin this week in a personal bid for delegate support of his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination.

His office announced today he would deliver a major speech at Milwaukee Thursday night, after a noon stop at Racine. Friday, he will be at Eau Claire and Appleton.

Student At MSC
Stabbed Fatally
In Cafe Scuffle

Detroit, March 29 (P)—Police of suburban Highland Park held three youths today in the fatal stabbing of a Michigan State College athlete and honor student.

Robert C. Barson, 19, Detroit freshman at MSC, died of a knife thrust in his heart early Sunday.

Detectives said that Barson, a potential football star at Michigan State, was slain as he apparently tried to fight off single-handed a group of young hoodlums.

The husky former Detroit high school athletic hero died on a sidewalk outside a small lunchroom on Woodward Avenue and Mc Nichols Road where he had scuffled with his adversaries.

Witnesses said that Barson was set upon in the lunch room for no apparent reason.

Shortly after the slaying Walter Thibodeau, 20, was arrested near the restaurant. Later Dennis Malton, 21, and Carl Welsh, 22, were arrested at their homes. All three have police records.

The trio denied taking part in the fight. They were held without charge.

George Bolyea, a companion of Barson, said he had left Barson in a lunch room booth and when he returned from the washroom found the place in an uproar.

"I saw Barson with half a dozen guys swinging at him," Bolyea said. "He wasn't trying to fight back. He was just keeping 'em off."

Barson, six feet four inches tall, weighed 235 pounds.

Barson, trying to fend off his attackers, backed toward the kitchen, shouting "Stay out, George, leave them alone. I can handle it," Bolyea said.

Ultimately Barson worked his way out the front door, Bolyea said.

Bolyea said that when he got out he saw Barson lying on the sidewalk and a man striking him on the head with a metal rack from a newspaper stand.

"I ran toward them and this guy dropped the rack and ran," Bolyea said. "Barson was groaning and then he wasn't groaning at all. I guess he died right there."

Barson, who attended Michigan State College on a Jensen Athletic scholarship, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barson of Detroit. The father is manager of a grocery store.

Barson had intended to return to East Lansing today with the completion of the spring vacation.

GUNSHOTS FIRED AT U. S. CONSUL

Windsor, Ont., Assailant
Hides Behind Tree

Windsor, Ont., March 29 (P)—Ontario Provincial police sought clues today to the stealthy assailant who fired two gunshots last night at John Bankhead, American Consul here.

Bankhead said the shots, apparently fired from behind a tree, struck the rear door of his car as he drove up to his Riverside Drive home. He was alone in the car.

Police found footprints between a post and tree at the driveway entrance.

It was the third attempt on his life in recent weeks. Bankhead said. He reported that poisoned liquor and candy had been sent to his home. On another occasion his car had been tampered with, he said.

The American Consul has come to attention for his tight border restriction policy. He has attributed this to an effort to keep Communists from entering the United States by way of Detroit.

Last night's apparent attempt on Bankhead's life was made despite the presence on the premises of an officer of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Suspect in Killing Of Minister's Wife
Hints At Suicide

Santa Rosa, Calif., March 29 (P)—Lazaro Varga, former Divinity student and Ypsilanti, Mich., state hospital patient charged with the rape murder of a minister's wife, was under guard today because of a chance remark.

This would be a fine place to commit suicide," he told fellow jail inmates.

Nevada authorities plan to take Varga, 19, to Wells, where he is charged with the brutal murder of Mrs. Billee Rahe Morning, 22, an expectant mother, last Monday. He was arrested in nearby Petaluma Friday.

Manila Land Mine
Kills Young Son
Of U. S. Sergeant

Manila, March 29 (P)—An old U. S. land mine exploded today, killing the eight-year old son of an American airforce sergeant.

Three girl playmates were injured, one critically.

The blast, on the Clark Field airbase, was caused by a land mine planted by retreating American forces in December, 1941, to slow the Japanese. The mine, a buried fragmentation bomb, had been overlooked by both Japanese and American disposal squads.

BOARD WANTS
TESTIMONY OF

SHUTDOWN COSTS
COUNTRY OVER
500 MILLION

Washington, March 29. John L. Lewis was subpoenaed to appear at 2 p. m. (EST) today before a presidential board investigating the coal strike after he had refused to testify voluntarily.

The formal order was issued immediately after Lewis had turned down the board invitation to explain the walkout of his 400,000 soft coal miners.

An hour later, two United States marshals emerged grinning from United Mine Workers' headquarters and the marshals' office said that Lewis had accepted the subpoena. This occurred after the officers had experienced difficulty getting an elevator to take them to Lewis' office. The stairs were barred.

Rare Smile Shows
Shortly after the deputies left, Lewis emerged with an unaccustomed smile. Asked by reporters if he will appear before the board, he answered, "No comment."

Three minutes before a 10 a. m. (EST) deadline set for his reply, the United Mine Workers' leader fired at the board a reply to its invitation setting forth his "disinclination" to testify.

The soft coal operators testified last Friday on their position in the dispute with Lewis over pensions for miners. Lewis was allowed the entire weekend to reply to the board's invitation.

The invitation to testify was issued by Federal Judge Sherman Minton, chairman of the board set up by President Truman to investigate the walkout which is entering its third week.

In his reply to the board, Lewis said in effect that the Taft-Hartley Law, under which the board was appointed, had not been violated.

As the mine shutdown began its third week, coal operators estimated it had already cost the country $500,000,000 and the miners an amount double the $332,000,000 pension fund which touched off the shutdown.

Pension Called Illegal
A 10-cent royalty on coal production dating back to last July 1 has built up the funds. But Lewis and Ezra Van Horn, respective trustees for the union and the operators, have been unable to agree. As a result nothing has been paid out of the fund.

Prague Folks About
Hollywood Hysteria

Prague, March 29 (P)—Hanns Eisler, composer who left Hollywood after a tangle with the House committee on un-American activities, surveyed the sunny, peaceful streets of Prague today and said to Czech friends: "How different!"

Then he gave to listeners, many of them the new Communists who have taken control of the Czechoslovak government, his impression of present day Hollywood:

"It is a city in a terrible state of hysteria.

"Old friends regard each other with suspicion. You don't know whether you can trust your neighbors. People whisper. There are prying eyes. There is conspiracy in the air and nervous thousands are quite sure the war will start next week or next month."

BREEDING UNIT TO START SOON

Inseminator Is Hired By Delta Dairy Farmers

The Delta county Artificial Breeding association has hired Paul Corcoran, World War II veteran and former Pine Ridge farmer, as its inseminator and the artificial breeding program in the county is hoped to be started by April 15 or shortly thereafter. J. L. Heilman, county agricultural agent, announced today.

After leaving military service Corcoran attended Michigan State College, returning to Escanaba in February. He was hired by the ABA board of directors, and to complete his training for the job will take an intensive eight-day course at MSC starting April 5.

In artificial breeding, semen from purebred bulls of proven record is shipped from Michigan State College where the ABA bull stud is maintained. In the various counties where ABA units are established, the dairy farmers sign up their cows for artificial insemination. The farmers must be members of the local ABA unit.

The directors of the recently organized Delta county ABA No. 1 are Dick Johnston of Ensign, Archie Dubord of Gladstone Rt. 1, Joe Charon of Escanaba Rt. 1, Oral Thompson of Cornell, Charles Costa Jr. of Escanaba Rt. 1, Clarence Anderson of Bark River, and Elmer Lepisto of Rock.

If more than 1,000 cows are signed up in the county it is expected that another ABA unit will be organized. Members are being admitted in the order of signing. Membership blanks are available from any of the directors and at the office of the county agent.

COUNTY TO ASK RADIO LICENSE

Road Commission Studies Two-way Radio Plan

The Delta county road commission will apply to the Federal Communications Commission for a license to operate a two-way radio station to provide facilities for communication between road officials and road trucks, it was decided by the commission in meeting Saturday.

J. T. Sharpsteen, commission superintendent - engineer, advised the commission that at a recent meeting of highway officials in lower Michigan, the matter of assigning high frequency radio channels for road purposes was discussed. The FCC has assigned six channels for highway use, but comparatively few counties and cities have so far applied for licenses, largely because of financial reasons.

Meanwhile the number of licenses issued to other agencies has grown, and apprehension was expressed that the FCC might allot the "highway use" radio channels to other users. Sharpsteen said the matter of radio communication for county road commission use has been considered for several years, although cost estimates have not yet been made. If the license is approved, however, a small start can be made, and radio equipment expanded later.

The road commission also heard a delegation of Ford River township residents who requested improvement of the Buske road, or county road 814. This road was partially built by WPA, and the delegation asked its completion. The commission at its next meeting will visit the township for an "on the ground" inspection of the road.

Repair of the county bridge crossing Ford River at Ford River mills, which has been closed to traffic for several weeks, was decided by the commission. Work will be started after the ice is out of the river and the cost is estimated at about $2,500. The cost was originally estimated higher, but by utilizing the present bridge flooring the cost is not expected to be excessive. The bridge is expected to be safe except for heavy trucking.

The U. S. Patent Office has issued more than 2,500,000 patents since it was established 154 years ago.

C&NW Is Studying Poor Mail Service

Marinette, Wis.—Percy Rounds, chairman of the transportation committee of the Marinette Chamber of Commerce, was advised by L. L. White, vice president of the North Western railroad, that efforts will be made to improve the mail service to Marinette during the coal strike emergency.

Since the Office of Defense Transportation ordered a 25 per cent reduction in trains pulled by coal-burning locomotives, mail service to Marinette and environs has been completely disrupted. Mail that normally would reach here early in the morning has been arriving as late as 2 o'clock in the afternoon, too late for distribution that day by the carrier service.

Between 1929 and 1941, U. S. money spent on gambling machines increased about 1,000 per cent; horse and dog racing about 700 per cent; stamp and coin collecting 300 per cent.

DOC MAY DIES AT ANN ARBOR

Gymnasium Instructor Known To Thousands

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 29 (AP)—Dr. George A. (Doc) May, known to thousands of University of Michigan alumni, died Sunday. Death came to him at University hospital at the age of 75.

Dr. May, better known to most students than the more famous names in Michigan athletics, was head of compulsory gymnasium classes for 40 years.

An agile, robust little man, he could still swing expertly on the parallel bars of the gymnasium when he retired in 1942 at the age of 70.

Dr. May's gymnasium classes were compulsory for all freshmen. In this capacity he became intimately acquainted with more students than did the more celebrated figures on the campus.

Dr. May, graduate of Yale University Medical School in 1901, was born in Philadelphia in 1872. He came directly to Michigan from Yale. Upon retirement he held the rank of Associate Professor of Physician Education.

His wife, the former Anna Marie Vaughan of Cleveland, died in 1933. They had no children. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at the Muehlberg Chapel.

Reckless Misuse Of Land Imperils Humanity, Claim

Boston.—Atomic war is not the most serious threat to the continued existence of the human race today; man is threatened with self-destruction through reckless misuse of the land that destroys his very means of subsistence, declares Dr. Fairfield Osborn, president of the New York Zoological Society. In a new book, Our Plundered Planet, published here by Little, Brown and Company, he traces the consequences of man's need and greed through the centuries, and points out the fate that will be inevitable if our present land-ravaging practices are permitted to persist.

Despite the pressure of hungry millions on food resources, greed seems to have played larger part than need in wasting the soil. Deforesting upper mountain slopes, plowing good pasture into bad fields, overloading the range with too many sheep (and worse still, goats) is a story that has been repeated over and over through the ages. That is why ruined temples stand today in Syria on stony hills that were once soil-covered. That is why sand clogs Roman cities in North Africa. That is why modern Spain is a land of agricultural slums, breeding revolt. That is why "Okies and Arkies" streamed out toward California half a generation ago—and may do so again.

CAR ACCIDENT INJURES YOUTH

Charles Strelick, 18,
Pinned Under Auto

Charles Strelick, 18, of 1232 South Milwaukee avenue, Iron Mountain, was seriously injured at 6:30 p. m. Sunday when the car he was driving hit the soft shoulder on M-35 two miles south of the Bark River bridge, and rolled 70 feet along the roadside.

Thrown out of the car, Strelick was pinned beneath the auto and was removed with difficulty by a group of volunteer rescuers. Both legs were beneath the car. The youth was rushed to St. Francis hospital in an ambulance, where it was reported today that he had suffered a fractured pelvic bone and shock. Plasma was administered yesterday in the treatment of shock. His condition was reported as fair.

Strelick was driving a car owned by the Rev. Fr. A. C. Pellissier of Iron Mountain, and they were accompanied by James Hebein of 211 West Brown street, Iron Mountain. Fr. Pellissier and Hebein, a youth, escaped serious injury. Investigating officers were told by Fr. Pellissier that the young men were seminary students.

The car was going south at a speed of 50 miles an hour when the accident occurred. Getting out of control on the soft shoulder, the car hit the ditch on the right side and rolled over and over. It was badly damaged.

Glen Peterson of 424 South 16th street, Escanaba, one of the men who assisted in freeing Strelick from beneath the car, suffered cuts on his hand in the rescue effort.

Louis N. Schemmel Taken By Death; Rites Tuesday

Louis N. Schemmel, 86, of 400 South 9th street, retired Escanaba business man, and civic leader here for many years, died Sunday at 7:15 a. m., at St. Francis hospital, where he had been a patient for the past two weeks.

Mr. Schemmel was born in Wauwatosa, Wis., September 21, 1861, and came to Escanaba in 1873, when he was 17 years old. He started work in the Frank Atkins grocery and three years later became a member of the firm. He then established his own grocery business at 323 Ludington street, and later a hardware business at 819 Ludington street. After retiring from his own hardware business he joined the Delta Hardware where he remained for 15 years.

Intensely interested in magnetic surveying, he devoted much of his time in later years to the project, and he was secretary and director of the Escanaba Iron Range Exploration company, which he founded.

He served as county treasurer from 1898 to 1902, and in 1920 was elected to the Escanaba board of education, serving for 15 years as secretary. He resigned from the board 11 years ago.

He was a life-long member of St. Joseph's parish.

Surviving are his widow, the former Mary Walsh, whom he married 56 years ago; one son, Julius P. Schemmel, of Hibbing, Minn., one daughter, Mrs. Anna Kraus, Escanaba; six grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Funeral services will be held at St. Joseph's church, Father Alphonsus, O. F. M., officiating, Tuesday at 9 a. m., and burial will be in Holy Cross cemetery. The body is in state at the Allo funeral home.

WEEK END GALE CAUSES DAMAGE

Saginaw Bay Ice Jam
Spares Cottages

Temperatures rose in Michigan today following an Easter weekend gale that caused widespread damage.

The United States weather bureau said, however, that the mercury would touch the low 30s tonight, rising to the 50s today and Tuesday. No heavy rains or snow was forecast.

The Easter Sunday low in Detroit was 20 degrees, some nine degrees above the 1887 record of 11.

On Saginaw Bay, a southwest wind checked the menace of a six-foot high mass of ice blown onto the shore Saturday by a 40-mile an hour northeasterly gale.

Four cottages on Brissette beach, eight miles north of Bay City, were damaged by the crushing wall of ice. Utility poles and wires were toppled.

At Killarney and Ricona beaches, a few miles south, the ice stopped four feet from a row of 100 buildings, some of them expensive all-year homes.

Observers said the ice was melting but little in the current low temperatures. However, it had not moved since Saturday.

Elsewhere in the state, an Easter sun cleared highways of a dangerous coating of ice left by Saturday's snowfall.

Synthetic Rubber Is Claimed Better

Minneapolis (SS)—Synthetic rubber, produced at much lower temperatures than used in most Buna S production, is better than the natural product, University of Minnesota chemists claim. The low-temperature process was developed here in the university laboratories, and may result in sweeping changes in the American rubber industry's production methods.

The Minnesota process has been tested and modified in several industrial laboratories and has been tried out on a pilot plant stage. Dr. I. M. Kolthoff of the university staff stated. Exhaustive tire tests have proved that the new product is superior to any synthetic rubber previously produced and considerably better than natural rubber, he said.

Story of Adele's Vision Is Told In Wisconsin Book

Madison, Wis.—Coinciding with the opening of the state's centennial year, "Wisconsin Is My Doorstep," a volume of yarns of Wisconsin background, by Robert E. Gard, was issued on March 24 as a new contribution to Wisconsin lore and Americana.

Typical tales are of a riotous affair between two Green county postmasters in defense of the honor of the illustrious cheese, "Limburger," of the incident of a town marshal outwitting Dave Mills, "roughest of the rivermen" (on the Mississippi); of Gene Shepard, Rhinelander's famed author of hoaxes; of John Appleby, inventor of the twine binder; of Cordelia Harvey, the "Wisconsin angel," and her interviews with President Lincoln on behalf of a soldiers' hospital in Wisconsin.

Of Adele, Belgian girl of Bay Settlement, and her vision which restored the Belgians' faith; of the fabulous fightin' Finches, legendary bad men of Wisconsin. There are stories dealing with Wisconsin's dairy land and other localities.

Gard, who is well known for his radio programs on Wisconsin's past, has disclosed through his research what is described as a vast amount of regional materials scarcely touched by the writer or dramatist. "Through the Wisconsin Idea theater he hopes to 'see a true and deep interpretation of Wisconsin as a vital part of the unfolding American pattern.'"

Hollow vessels were made by winding rods of hot, softened glass around a sand core, before glass blowing was discovered.

Ice Still Solid In Little Bay, But Big Bay Is Half Clear

With the exception of lanes cut by the U. S. Coast Guard ice breaker Mackinaw and cutter Woodbine, ice in Little Bay de Noquet is solid ranging in thickness from 20 to 30 inches. Henry E. Hathaway, Escanaba meteorologist, reported this morning.

The windstorm Friday night, which reached an official velocity of 59 miles an hour—a new high in Escanaba—drove ice fields out in Lake Michigan from Stonington point south but left bay ice intact.

The lower half of Big Bay de Noquet is blown out, ice being piled up as high as 75 feet at Ford River shoals, and upper Green Bay is clear of ice, Hathaway said. Lake Michigan is dotted with large floating ice fields.

Hathaway called attention to the Lake Michigan level, currently 579.83 feet above sea level, or 1.33 feet above normal. Last fall and during the winter, the level reached 581 feet, or 2.5 feet above normal. Hathaway expects the lake level to recede when the ice moves out.

Meanwhile, the Woodbine continues to break up ice in Escanaba harbor and Little Bay de Noquet. It weathered the windstorm Friday night without mishap, taking shelter near Kipling.

Previous high wind velocity in Escanaba was 48 during the pre-war Armistice Day storm that left a heavy toll of ship wreckage and loss in Lake Superior and Lake Michigan.

"The reason the 59-mile-an-hour wind did not cause greater damage in this area is that it was a steady north wind," Hathaway declared. "It is the twisting, gusty type of wind that causes the greatest damage."

Felix St. Peter Is Struck by Car

Felix St. Peter, 910 South 19th street, sustained a bruised knee when he was struck by a car driven by Albert Constantineau, No. 11, Veterans Housing Project, in Escanaba Saturday evening. St. Peter was taken to St. Francis hospital for examination of his injuries and later was released.

St. Peter was walking across Ludington street from north to south in front of the Delft Beauty Shop, 914 Ludington, when he was struck by Constantineau's car. Constantineau said he did not see the pedestrian until St. Peter walked in front of the car.

Richard Juettin, 2236 Lake Shore Drive, reported to police Sunday that a car that he was driving broke a light pole in the 200 block of South 14th street early Sunday morning.

Repeal State Law

MICHIGAN'S community property law probably will be repealed in the present special session of the state legislature. State lawmakers are awaiting developments in the federal tax reduction bill now before the president. If it becomes law either by presidential approval or by passage over a veto, the state's community property law will be removed from the statute books.

The state law was enacted a year ago only for the purpose of giving Michigan taxpayers equal treatment with taxpayers of other community property states. The community property principle, however, offers legal complications, particularly in the probating of estates.

The tax reduction bill passed by the House and Senate provides that all married couples may split their income for federal tax purposes, thereby insuring equality for all taxpayers in the nation. The adoption of the federal law makes the state community property act unnecessary so the lawmakers will repeal it if and when the federal law is enacted.

Gov. Sigler has already promised his support to a repeal bill. The governor's support is necessary to bring the legislation up for action during the special session.

It is regarded as almost certain that the tax reduction bill approved by Congress will be enacted soon, probably over a presidential veto. The president has indicated several times that he will not approve a general tax cut at this time but proponents in both the House and Senate have shown sufficient strength to override the president on this issue.

Ask Ban On Smelt

COMMERCIAL fishermen of Marinette and Menominee are seriously considering the advisability of requesting state legislation to place restrictions on catches by dipnetters during the smelt spawning runs.

What the commercial fishermen fear is that uncontrolled dipnet catches will ruin the market for the fish. A limit of 25 to 50 pounds per person has been suggested.

Times have changed. When the silvery fish first appeared in Lake Michigan waters a score years ago, commercial fishermen cursed them as a nuisance, because they fouled their nets and aroused fears that the smelt would cause extermination of perch, whitefish and other commercial species.

But smelt jamborees and national publicity created a consumer demand for smelt, bringing a new bonanza for the fishing industry and also attracting early spring tourists to Escanaba, Menominee and other communities. When the smelt succumbed to some mysterious malady in the winter of 1941-42 it was viewed as somewhat of a calamity.

The smelt has been making a gradual comeback, however. Commercial fishermen's catches in Bay de Noc have been much larger this year than last, and there are indications that there will be a sizable spawning run. During the past several weeks, smelt have been commanding prices ranging from 26 to 28 cents a pound on the Chicago wholesale fish market. This explains why Twin Cities fishermen are talking about placing restrictions on dipnet catches. They don't want to see smelt lying in piles along river banks and going to waste like in the prewar days when dipnetters were catching them by the tons.

Petrillo Calms Down

SINCE Boris Karloff, the Hollywood bogymen, appeared as a kindly old professor on Broadway this season, perhaps we should not be too surprised to see tough, tempestuous Jimmy Petrillo in an amiable and agreeable role. Still it was a bit of a shock when he signed a new contract between his American Federation of Musicians and the radio networks without a struggle.

After virtually liquidating the recording industry on Jan. 1, Mr. Petrillo has suddenly lifted his ban on union musicians playing for television, with pay rates to be arranged later. He also renewed his radio broadcast contract for three years, with no pay rise and no increased employment.

He explained all this by saying that "They (the networks) simply said that they couldn't give us more men and more money, and I took them at their word." This is practically the first time Mr. Petrillo ever took no for an answer, so naturally one wonders why he has done it now.

We don't think this agreement with the networks is a repayment to them for not raising a loud howl over the recording and transcription ban.

The best guess might be that James Caesar was backed into a corner when Federal Judge Walter LaBuy acquitted him of violating the Lea (anti-Petrillo) Act in Chicago a couple of months ago. Mr. Petrillo deliberately broke the law to test it. In the first trial Judge LaBuy held the Lea Act unconstitutional. The Supreme Court ordered the case retried on its merits.

Mr. Petrillo was then adjudged innocent. The judge's chief reason, you may recall, was that a radio station failed to tell the union head that he didn't need any more record turners after Mr. Petrillo demanded they be hired.

So James Caesar escaped punishment. But the Lea Act is still constitutional. And Mr. Petrillo seems to have decided—quite wisely, we should say—that it would be prudent not to tempt fate with another court test.

Meanwhile a number of radio stations have laid off musicians, under protection of this law which at last permits them to determine for themselves how big a staff they need. Maybe they'll hire them in a year or two or three when the present backlog of new records is gone.

These layoffs have caused some loss in AFM members' jobs and income. The recording ban has had a bigger effect on the earnings of players in name dance bands and symphony orchestras. If Mr. Petrillo doesn't allow record making to be resumed before the present stock runs out, the popular bands will feel it even worse.

All this indicates that Mr. Petrillo may have outsmarted himself by his devious maneuvering. It has been predicted that nothing would bring him down off his high horse unless he let his autocratic methods get so out of hand that he was doing "his boys" more harm than good. That time may have come. We can't think of anything else that would suddenly make the fiery union boss so meek, mild, and completely out of character.

Not For Truman

THE Roosevelt boys, Elliott and Franklin Jr., have added a boot in the pants of their own to the series of kicks in the political breeches that President Truman has sustained in recent weeks. The Roosevelts have endorsed Gen. Dwight Eisenhower for the Democratic nomination.

Eisenhower, widely considered as a potential Republican nominee up to a few weeks ago, has bluntly and emphatically removed himself from any consideration as a presidential candidate. The Roosevelts, of course, probably had that in mind when they landed upon the general as their candidate. They aren't "for" anybody as much as they are "against" Truman.

The Democrats know now that Truman has virtually no chance at all for reelection but because the president refuses to withdraw from the race the national organization is stymied in a desire to seek a new face as a standard bearer. The Roosevelts' announcement stems from frustration, knowing as they do that Eisenhower has no desire to become a candidate and certainly not on a Democratic ticket.

SAME OLD IKE!

(Detroit News)

It is understood there were cases of disillusionment after the late hostilities among the girls who married uniforms, only to discover that the object of their adoration looked different in civvies.

Mrs. Eisenhower no doubt would be an exception, even were she the kind of woman to whom clothes make the man.

Ike, in his first pictures taken in the undramatic costume of the conventional civilian male, still looks like Ike. He is still the Man of Distinction, even without glass in hand to prove it!

Concede his tailor a share of credit, but it still wasn't a tailor who gave Ike those manly shoulders and the youthful waistline. His, above all, is the irrepressible and contagious grin, which in Ike's case does make the man, as we like to think of him.

As the newspaper reporter said, "What a candidate he WOULD have made!"

WORDS TO WATCH

Overheard on a bus: "... and they rushed him to the hospital with a bursted appendix." The verb burst is the same in both the present and past tense: It will burst; it has burst; a burst appendix, etc.

Now in very formal speech the word burst often occurs; the past participle and past tense is busted, as: He was busted (reduced in rank to private) for going a.w.o.l. We must guard against boom and bust, he said. This hand is a burst (bridge). He busted out (of college) during his freshman year. He won first prize in bronco busting. I'd lend you the money, but I'm busted.

The dictionaries list such expressions as slang. However, they have been in the language for so long a time, and are now so commonly used that I feel that bust, noun and verb, in the above meanings has become an American idiom that eventually will come to be quite respectable. Meantime, however, I should not use the word in serious or formal speech or writing.

Be on guard against an erroneous final "t" sound in such words as wish, once, across, as, "I've told you once and for all that I wish you wouldn't go across the street."

Such speech is careless and dialectal and places one in a bad light.

Overheard on a radio comment: "He is smarting under the ig-NOM-i-nee of being dismissed from office." The word ignominy, "disgrace; dishonor," was used correctly, but the pronunciation has a fractured vertebra. Ignominy has only one accent, and it falls on the first syllable, thus: IG-nuh-min-ee.

On the same commentation the word

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington.—The number of persons in the United States who actually want a war with the Soviet Union must be very small. The number would include a few neurotics with extra-special hate glands who seem to feel that a war is necessary to atone for Communist affronts to their honor.

It might still include some military men who believe in the logic of a preventive war. However, some who might have held such a view now realize that America's swift disarmament and demobilization after V-J Day undermined the logic of the kind of preventive war that would be quickly ended.

For the overwhelming majority of Americans, the prospect of another war is one of unrelieved dread and horror. What most Americans want to know is how war can be avoided without surrendering our vital security interests in strategic parts of the world.

HOOVER'S COMMON SENSE

To Americans still hoping against hope for peace the actions of certain members of Congress must seem very strange. These members seem actually to want a war. This is true particularly of those who are determined to stop altogether the current of trade between east and west; between Soviet Russia and her satellites on the one hand and western Europe and the United States on the other.

On this score, Herbert Hoover uttered sound common sense in his letter on the ERP bill to Speaker Joseph Martin of the House. If the Marshall plan countries are to become independent of relief, he wrote, they must trade with the satellite countries. This criticism was aimed specifically at the amendment of Rep. Karl Mundt of South Dakota, who would prevent western Europe from sending any goods to eastern Europe if the United States itself barred the shipment of such goods.

This coincides with a Senate investigation, directed by Chairman Homer Ferguson of the special Senate investigating subcommittee, into trade between the U. S. and the Soviet Union. It is accompanied by emotional and near-hysterical demands that all trade with Russia be severed. Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman has resisted these demands with the same kind of common sense that marks the Hoover statement. Harriman understands that in cutting all trade relations we would be taking a long step toward eventual war. It would be, in effect, an acceptance of the inevitability of war.

Senator Ferguson has a chance to perform a real service if he insists on making an investigation that is honest and detached. His committee should be able to come up with an answer that will satisfy all but the hysterics.

NO QUESTION OF SECRETS

The fact is that the amount of war material, so called, going to Russia is infinitely small. Some property declared surplus by military authorities—a few airplane engines and a few radar sets—has been included. But the important fact is that this was declared surplus and in all probability it is, from the American point of view, obsolete.

Alongside the eleven billion dollars worth of war material sent to Russia to fight the Germans during the war, it is nothing. The Russians long since acquired working models of anything available in World War II, so there can be no question of secrets.

Those who talk about chopping off all trade with eastern Europe never mention what we are getting from the USSR. About 30 per cent of our imports from Russia is in strategic material—manganese, chrome and platinum, all in scarce supply in this country. Fifty per cent of the trade is in furs. This could probably be cut off, although processing those furs gives employment to about 30,000 Americans. For that matter, we could do without the manganese and chrome.

But that is not the chief point. It is vital to continue and extend the pattern of east-west trade if there is to be recovery and stability in Europe. That trade, so long as we continue to build up our own strength and protect our security interests, cannot be called appeasement.

This question will come up very soon in connection with Poland's application to the International Bank for a loan to develop her coal mines. Great pressure is being brought on the directors of the bank to deny the loan, which would demonstrably get more coal out of the earth.

Those who oppose the loan argue that it is too big a risk, since Russia might prevent the Poles from sending the extra coal to western Europe and the money might be lost. Strangely enough, some of these same men talk about war as though that were not the greatest of all risks—a risk of blood and treasure infinitely greater than ever before. A little more practical sense of the Herbert Hoover brand and less shrill emotionalism would help a lot at the present moment.

machination. "A crafty scheme; an evil plot," was mispronounced "MASH-i-NAY-shun." Better rhyme the first syllable with "back, lack," thus: MACK-i-NAY-shun.

Overheard at a carnival midway: "See, he cuts your SILL-yoo-ETT out of black paper." The silhouette, "a dark image like a shadow," was named for the French minister of finance, Etienne de Silhouette (1709-1767), in sarcastic reference to his severe taxing of the estates of the nobles. Silhouette became the popular word for a figure reduced to its simplest form. There is no "y" sound in the second syllable. Say: sill-oo-ETT; or sill-uh-ETT.

Do you know what the "one of" complex is? Mr. Colby gives right and wrong examples and when to use a plural verb in a sentence containing a "one of" construction in his leaflet, C-13.

Something Seems to Have Slipped

Good Evening

By Clint Dunathan

LAWLESSNESS—More persons were arrested and fingerprinted in 1947 than in any other year on record in the United States, the Federal Bureau of Investigation reports. The FBI received and recorded 734,041 arrest records last year, representing an increase of 13.7 per cent over 1946.

The arrests of women accounted for 75,391 of the records tabulated, or an increase of 9.7 per cent over 1946.

The arrests of males increased from 576,689 in 1946 to 658,650 in 1947, or 14.2 per cent.

For the males, the age of 21 was the "danger year" for crime, the records show. Of the total number of arrests of males, those 21 years of age numbered 29,747. This was the highest in the 16 to 24 age group among males. Age 22 was second high with 28,936 arrests; age 23 was third with 26,978.

HIGH CRIME—J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, attributes the present-day high crime rates to numerous factors.

"A failure on the part of too many citizens to assume the responsibilities of citizenship. Too frequently, law enforcement agencies are not provided with adequate facilities, funds and trained officers."

"The juvenile delinquent of the war years is becoming the hardened criminal of today. They provide recruits for the formation of gangs following in many respects the pattern of the early twenties. "Home life has deteriorated and in too many instances homes are merely places of living and not places of learning."

"Real reduction in present-day crime rates will not come until every adult recognizes his responsibility to youth and his responsibility as a citizen. In these days of uncertainty the American people must realize that if we are to be strong internally every effort must be directed toward the goal of making the people of this nation more law-abiding."

WAR ITSELF—Entirely overlooked as a factor in the increased crime in the United States is the recent war itself, a force weakening the moral fibre of a too-large group of American people. J. Edgar Hoover does not touch on this—except to indicate that it is the fault of the wartime juvenile delinquent. Yet the FBI report of crime among males by age groups proves it to be only a part of the story.

In the number of 1947 arrests per age among males, ages 21, 22 and 23 were in first, second and third place.

Men who were 21 in 1947 were 18 years old in 1944, 19 years old in 1945, the last year of the war. Presumably a number of them were in military service for one or more years before the close of the war.

Men who were 22 years old in 1947 saw two and possibly three years of war service, for they were 18 in 1943.

Men who were 23 years old in 1947 were 18 years old in 1942. The first full year of the war.

They were not "juvenile delinquents" during the war years. They were undoubtedly in the military, members of our armed forces.

OBSERVATION—It is a local observation, borne out by police records, that many of the arrests made in 1947 in this and neigh-

INTO THE PAST

Ten Years Ago

Munising—Miss Alida Vickman, a student of Cleary college in Ypsilanti, is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Vickman.

Manistique—Harold Hupfer, George Yoder, Kurt Mattson, Wilfred Norton, George Saunders and Francis Benzer have returned to their studies in Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton after spending several days here at their parental homes.

Gladstone—Miss Virginia Krout, a student nurse in Cumberland hospital in Brooklyn, N. Y., has been transferred to the Kingston avenue hospital in New York for a special course in communicable disease.

Twenty Years Ago
Escanaba—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Riley, Lake Shore drive, are the parents of a son weighing 10 and a half pounds.

Manistique—Jack Hayden, a student at Central State Teachers college in Mt. Pleasant, is visiting at the home of his parents here. He leaves Tuesday for Buffalo, N. Y., to visit his grandmother.

Perkins—Floyd Gibbs, a student of Michigan State college in East Lansing, is visiting here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Gibbs.

Gladstone—The Misses Anita Rosenblum, Charlotte Marble and Helen Erickson arrived last night from Lawrence college in Appleton, Wis., to spend Easter at their homes.

boring communities were of men who had been in military service in the recent war.

It is equally obvious that this report is made for the purpose of keeping the record straight, not to "smear" any group. It is also true that the total 85,711 men arrested in 1947 in the 21, 22 and 23 year-old age group represented only a small fraction of the men in military service in World War II.

RURAL LIFE—Contradictory in a sense, is the table showing the number of arrests by age groups of both males and females. The age 17 group in 1947 was no higher than it was in 1940. The age 18 group is only slightly above 1940. The age 19 and age 20 groups are above prewar years, while the age 21, 22 and 23 groups are highest of all, as we pointed out above.

Hoover says: "The juvenile delinquent of the war years 22 X X provide the recruits for the formation of gangs following in many respects the pattern of the early twenties."

How can this be correlated with his report that says:

"Crimes in rural areas increased 7.1 per cent over 1946, with the crimes of rape increasing 15.7 per cent, burglary 13.7 per cent; aggravated assault 10.9 per cent, larceny 10.6 per cent; robbery 1.9 per cent."

And by the report that: "Crimes in urban areas declined 5.1 per cent with decreases being recorded for the crimes of auto theft, negligent manslaughter, murder, robbery, burglary, and larceny."

His assertion that war-time juvenile delinquents are forming "gangs" of criminals similar to those of the twenties does not seem to be substantiated by the crime figures. Criminal gangs originate and grow in cities, not in rural areas.

The increase in crime in the rural sections of the country in 1947 cannot be ascribed to war-time juvenile delinquents. Considering that the greatest crime increase is in the 21-23 age group, "juvenile delinquency" can hardly be used as the scape goat for the 1947 crime wave.

Roving Reporter

By Hal Boyle

Washington, March 29 (AP)—Every year it's the same.

Magnolias light up the capitol's back yard. The cherry blossoms, fragile and shy, blush pale pink. The mockingbird returns to begin his summer-long, saucy argument with our family cat, Humphrey P. Edson.

And John L. Lewis begins to rumble like a trigger-cocked, loaded, volcano.

The signs all point to it. Spring has come to Washington.

Even though it's an annual show, many people still don't realize that, like a bud, John L. Lewis goes through several stages before he blooms each spring.

The first hint that the sap is running comes at a Lewis press conference. Lewis is seated at a table, holding a copy of the existing contract between operators and miners.

He glares at the contract as if he would as soon cuddle a cobra. His scowl has pulled the Lewis eyebrows down to halfmast.

"The mine owners," thunders Lewis, "continue gleefully to violate the contract."

This blast blows miners out of their pits, hundreds of miles away.

The walkout has begun.

And now, students, we are ready to study the second phase in the flowering of John L. Lewis.

This is the contract-disputing phase. That's where we are right now.

Lewis may talk plenty behind closed doors, but to the reporters and therefore to the public—he's usually as silent as a tongue-tied mummy.

I have seen him stalk silently through a crowd of reporters, many of whom he has known for years.

Everyone wonders what Lewis' plans are. Will he? Won't he?

"Any comment, Mr. Lewis?"

"Mr. Lewis, we would like—"

Lewis walks on. Not a flicker of recognition. It's like spaniels yapping at a sphinx.

Once, last spring, with reporters tailing him everywhere, he went. Lewis said only one word in a week.

As he came out of the United Mine Workers Building, he said "Gentlemen."

For the next six days he said nothing at all. This averages out at slightly better than a letter a day.

And then, ah, then, the third stage comes.

We haven't reached it yet, but if history repeats, it will go about like this:

There will be the press conference, possibly in an auditorium so union people can look admiringly on.

Lewis will be seated at a table, holding a copy of the new contract.

He will look at it as if it were a pot of gold. Which, the operators may cry, is exactly what it is.

Gaily Lewis will greet reporters, by their first names. Grandly he will joke.

Why did the operators give him such a good contract?

"Who knows what a coal operator thinks—if he thinks," Lewis may say—as he said last year. And lo, the Lewis laughter will lead all the rest.

Then the conference will be over. Reporters will grab their notes, scurry out to spread this word to a coal-conscious world.

The late bloomer, John L. Lewis, has blossomed at last.

A Democracy must defend itself by the virtues of its own institutions. Otherwise, no army can protect it long.—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

March 28, 1948

Memo To Senator Taft:

While you and I are in frequent disagreement, I have considerable admiration for your courage and tenacity. May I therefore present for your consideration a problem of vital importance to all of us.

As you know, the administration is now planning to embark on a gigantic arms program, including thousands of jet planes, new rocket-launching guns, submarines that can carry rockets close to enemy shores, new airplane carriers which can launch bombers, fast merchant ships powerful enough to outrun submarines, and thousands of steel-consuming guided missiles.

In addition the national defense department urges a lend-lease program whereby we would equip the armies of democratic nations in Europe.

While this program may not all be adopted, yet if only half of it—including the aviation program which you yourself favor—is adopted, it will result in the greatest inflation this nation has ever seen.

Already we face a steel shortage. Already our railroads are hard up for freight cars. Automobiles are still short in supply. The manpower shortage still handicaps many industries. Electric power is so low in the west that California is on daylight saving. Last week when the airplane industries learned they were to start a new building program their aluminum orders swamped the three lone companies in this country which make aluminum.

In other words, with the nation's economy already running at top speed, the Army and Navy have asked for 14 billion and are reported ready to ask for ten or eleven billion more.

BOOM-BUST INFLATION

According to the opinion expressed by many of your colleagues, a large part of this money will be voted. But even if the air program alone is voted, it will push the nation's normal peacetime economy into boom-bust inflation.

For on top of the tax reduction you are now voting, there will be more money to spend, more profits by those too recently on the gravy train, less goods to buy and further skyrocketing prices.

In short we may witness all the tragedy of Europe, where money means little more than the paper on which it is printed and when a cup of coffee at times has cost a million marks.

I am not proposing that the United States shirk from any arms program that is necessary. No great crisis has ever found this nation lacking, and with Russia on the rampage, a big air program undoubtedly is necessary.

UNPLEASANT CONTROLS NECESSARY
And though I have reservations about some of the other extravagant demands of the military, I have no reservation about the fact that if even a fraction of this arms program is to be met, the nation must once more subject itself to

Q. Is the normal body temperature less than 100 degrees?

A. Yes. It is 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit. However, slight variations in normal persons during the day is no cause for alarm.

Q. Does the U. S. Forest Service supervise most of the merchantable timber in Alaska?

A. Yes. The Tongass National Forest, containing 16,080,000 acres, covers most of southeastern Alaska. The Chugach National Forest includes most of the land along Prince William Sound and the eastern half of the Kenai Peninsula. It is estimated that the Chugach Forest has 6 billion feet and the Tongass Forest 78 billion feet of saleable timber. Most of this is hemlock and spruce.

Several months ago, with a GI loan guaranty, I bought a home. The State is building a road through our lot and we have been advised that our property will be purchased at prevailing prices. Will I, because of these extenuating circumstances, be able to obtain another loan?

A. Since you will be losing your home through no fault of your own because of the State purchase or condemnation proceedings, you will be able to obtain another Veterans Administration full loan guaranty.

Battle For Feminine Rights Began In 1848

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
Washington, (NEA)—Men, prepare your male egos for a shock.

The women have just taken stock on how far they've come in the last 100 years. The distance is considerable.

The occasion for the stock-taking is the 100th anniversary of the famous Seneca Falls, N. Y., meeting at which a bevy of female ringleaders including Lucretia Mott, Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton, got their heads together to make the weaker sex stronger. They got women all worked up over such things as not being able to vote or sign contracts, and having to turn all their property over to their husbands when they got married.

The anniversary clambake showed plenty of strength had been achieved in 100 years. The Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor sponsored the party, and more than 200 of the country's leaders of women were on hand to throw in their two cents' worth.

To take the story in easy doses, start with the woman as a wage earner and in business. The statistics and facts are supplied by Frieda S. Miller, head of the Woman's Bureau, and others who helped put together the picture of "American Woman—Her Changing Role as Worker, Homemaker, and Citizen."

Women now own two-thirds of the wealth of the U. S.—a big percentage of this is through inheritance—but they've got it.

In 1848 women were employed in only seven different kinds of jobs. Today they are employed in 442 out of 45 possible kinds of work.

Close to 30 per cent of all wage earners in the U. S. are women—17,000,000 of them.

The number of women classified as "proprietors, managers and officials" has increased 74 per cent since 1940. The number classed as "foremen" has increased 45 per cent. The number of women classified as "domestics" has decreased 20 per cent. Women constitute 40 to two-fifths to three-quarters of all the employees in the manufacture of clothing and textile products, tobacco, leather, electrical machinery, food, paper, printing and published material, rubber and chemicals.

More than 50 per cent of all working women are over 35. And married women constitute the biggest percentage group of all employed women.

More than 52 per cent of all "bookkeepers, accountants and cashiers" are women. This is where they have made the greatest inroad in what used to be considered man's work. Employed women contributed more than 50 per cent of the family income in one-half to three-fifths of all American families.

Gladys Dickson, who represents the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, says that the modern woman in effect, has changed the place of her work from her home to industry. Businesses which make bread, clothes, and kindred necessities employ her and do her homework for her at the same time. She says that practically every American woman now accepts the fact that she will have to work one or more periods during her life.

The typical American female employee was described by one of the delegates as intelligent, resourceful, dependable and honest. The male employee today is never sure of his job as long as there are women competitors for it. This competition, the woman delegate says, is improving the whole tenor of American industry by forcing the male always to do his best.

Is it wrong for married women to work? Just the opposite, says Hazel Kyrk, a professor of home economics at the University of Chicago. It's wrong for married women not to work if they can. She adds:

"Some married women prefer their leisure to what their earnings would buy for themselves and their families. These are the lazy whose claim upon the income of others enables them to be lazy."

"Our social aim is the elimination of a leisure class and the attainment instead of an equal distribution of leisure time we hope all will use well."

There was also evidence that with all the progress women have made in the business world in 100 years, all is still not perfect. Frieda Miller reveals that women's average pay is below that of unskilled men. All workers average $53.72 a week. Unskilled men average $43.46 a week while all women—skilled and unskilled—average only $38.94 a week. She has a few other comforting facts for men:

"Women as lawyers, scientists or as business executives are still the exception in 1948. Less than 500 women are employed in the more 'glamorous' occupations such as airplane stewardess, actress, radio commentator or psychologist. And after 100 years women represent less than five per cent of any such high grade professional groups like doctors, dentists, engineers, chemists, architects and lawyers."

Triple-Play Attack On Disease Developed

BY JANE STAFFORD
Rochester, Minn., (SS)—A new triple-play attack on tuberculosis is being made by scientists at the Mayo Clinic and Foundation here. Promin, a drug once tried and abandoned, is being used together with two other anti-TB chemicals.

Streptomycin, most hopeful of the drugs combatting TB, is one of the trio, while both promizole and PAS (para-aminosalicylic acid) are used as the third chemical.

Results three times as good as with any one drug alone are hoped for.

News of this three-pronged attack on the white plague will reach medical scientists through a report by Drs. William H. Feldman, Alfred G. Karlson and H. Corwin Hinshaw in the Proceedings of the Staff Meetings of the Mayo Clinic.

Promin had been tried as a TB remedy as early as 1940. But then it was being given to the patients in pills or capsules, and it had a damaging effect on red blood cells. So not enough could be given to get any good results.

Now it is known that much larger doses can be given safely if the drug is injected into the patient's veins. This was discovered by Dr. G. H. Faget, of the U. S. Public Health Service, when he tried it as a remedy for leprosy. Promin has proved so successful in leprosy that now the number of patients who get well and can be discharged from the National Leprosarium at Carville, La., is greater each year than the number of new patients coming to the institution.

These results with promin given by vein encouraged the Mayo Clinic group to try it again in tuberculosis. Studies with guinea pigs showed it was just as effective whether given by mouth, by vein or by injection under the skin.

By combining promin with streptomycin and either promizole or PAS, each of which has some effect against TB germs, the Mayo group hopes to get the sum of the benefit of each. In other words, the new treatment should be three times as effective as treatment with either drug alone.

OYSTERS DIE, IT'S MYSTERY

Fishermen Are Suing
Oil Companies

BY ROBERT C. RUARK

New Orleans.—The oyster, a piteous wee beastie which is apt to change its sex when it gets annoyed, and hence lives in a continual state of frustration, has been having an awful time lately. Serious-looking scientific gentlemen have been digging oysters by the thousands, weighing them and measuring them and transplanting them. They have been feeding them nauseous diets of oil and blowing them up with dynamite, and generally poking at them until there isn't a well-adjusted oyster from New Orleans to Mobile.

It is not enough that the poor oyster is born to be killed by boring clams and smothered by sponges and poisoned by fresh water and covered by mud and devoured raw by people. Something else—something highly mysterious—has been killing them at such a rate lately that a fisherman is apt to tong up 110 bagsful and find 105 bags dead and useless.

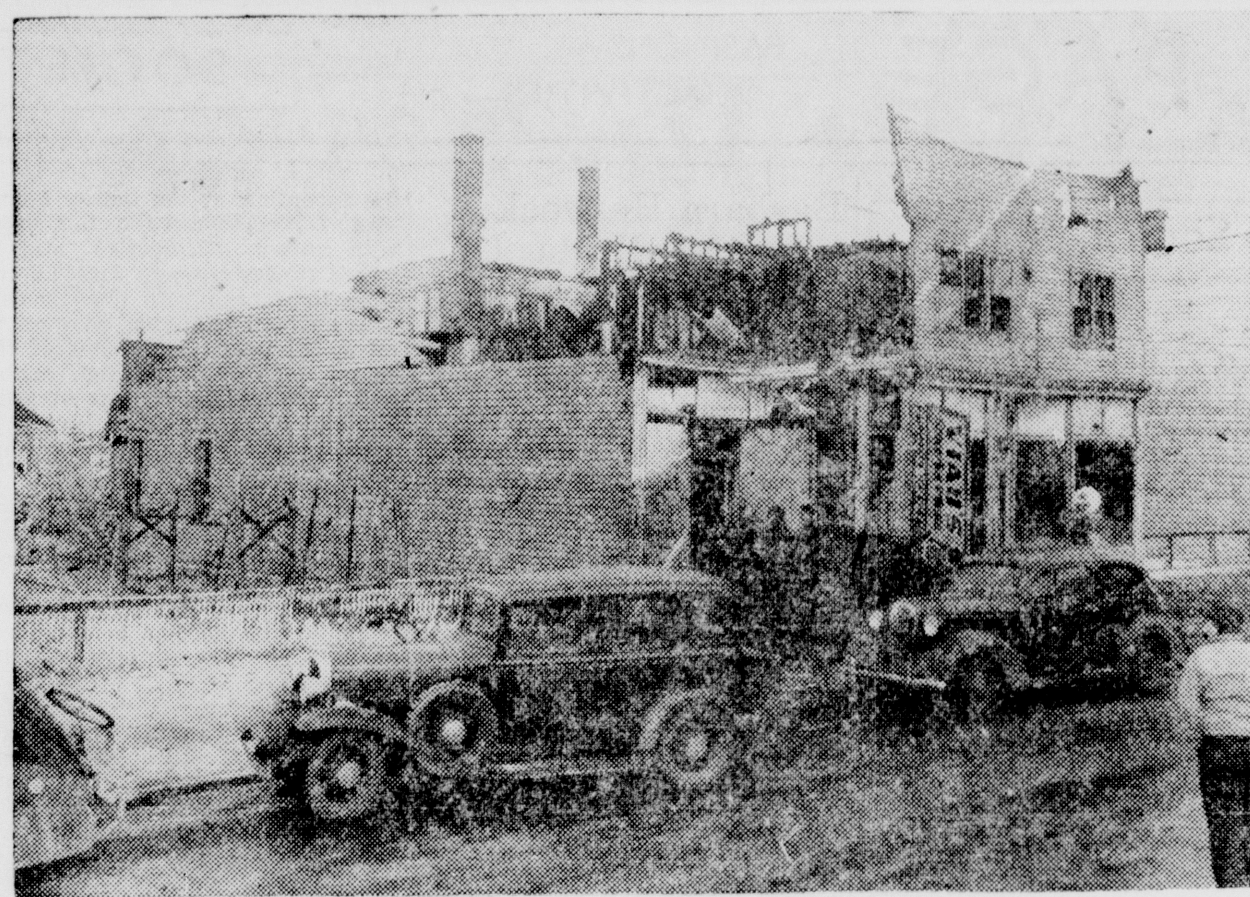

Oil Is Blamed

The oyster fishermen say that the oil and the operations necessary to its extraction are responsible for the oyster mortality, and are suing the oil companies in Louisiana to the tune of about $45 million. The oyster fishermen say that all that drilling and dynamiting and seismicographic explorations have put the oysters in such a tizzy that they eventually curl up and die of either panic or poison.

The big oil companies, eyeing a mounting pile of suits, say oil never killed an oyster yet, and have hired whole covens of scientists to prove that a diet of straight petroleum only makes an oyster fatter, sassier and happier. Oil oil has taken over the whole of Grand Bay as a job.

The Freeport Sulphur Co. has set up another lab in Biloxi, Miss. Texas Co. is operating at Barataria Bay.

Acting as a sort of combination fact-finder and referee in the rumble about oysters is the Fish and Wildlife Service. I flew down to a place called Houma yesterday to visit the laboratory in Sister Lake. James McConnell, the Louisiana director of oysters and water bottoms bosses, showed a show of eager young scientists there, and the atmosphere is more mysterious than that of an atom factory. Mr. McConnell says he was raised up with oysters, but he will just be

AFTER THE FIRE—This picture shows how Viou's Grocery and Casey's Barber Shop, 1519 Sheridan Road, looked after fire had swept through the buildings Saturday morning. The fire is believed to have started in a smokehouse in the rear of the meat market. The apartment on the second floor of the grocery store was completely destroyed.

ding-donged if he knows what's gettin' 'em. And then he adds that even if he did know, he couldn't tell anybody, for fear of prejudicing the upcoming lawsuits.

Not Afraid of Dynamite

Mr. McConnell said he thought for awhile it was the dynamite that was bothering the oysters, so he planted a huge charge of 800 pounds of the stuff within 50 feet of a big mess of oysters, crabs, fish and shrimp. He touched her off, and went to pick up the victims.

"All the fish were dead," says Mr. McConnell, "but the shrimp were livelier than ever. The control oysters made out fine. You evidently can't worry an oyster with dynamite."

The oysterman won't say anything about the results of feeding the shellfish a steady diet of oil, but it's my information that oil isn't the villain in the case. One thing is true: Sister Lake, a state seed oyster reservation, is right spang in the middle of big oil operations, and its death rate has been somewhat less than average. Oyster business in Louisiana, the case of the oil bivalves is as much attention as a juicy murder mystery. There has been rumored violence, threats and tremendous pressure all around. People whisper in corners about oysters, and talk about oysters from the corners of their mouths.

While the scientists snoop and the lawyers prepare their briefs, the poor little oysters go right on changing their sex, dying, and if they had fingernails, they certainly would gnaw them. There is no rest for an oyster, ever, because an oyster is just born to trouble and the best he can expect is a hot shower of pepper sauce and a permanent home in somebody's stomach.

Son of Minister Gets Prison For Ferndale Robbery

Pontiac, Mich. (P)—A minister's son, convicted of twice robbing a suburban loan office, was sentenced Saturday to serve one to 15 years in prison.

He is Clayton Wurtz, 28, of Snover, Mich., a former milkman and father of five children.

He told circuit judge H. Russell Holland he robbed the Ferndale Loan office to pay off $1,600 in debts which he said "were on my conscience."

Police said he used a sawed off shotgun in the robberies. Wurtz' father, the Rev. S. R. Wurtz, showed the court petitions signed by 200 Snover residents asking clemency for the defendant. The judge said a jail term was mandatory but recommended that Wurtz be required to serve only the minimum.

Potato Men Shift To The Whiteskins

East Lansing, March 24 (P)—Consumer demand is causing Michigan potato growers to change their minds about the best varieties.

Henry C. Moore, potato specialist at Michigan State College, said today that consumers prefer the white-skinned potatoes and more growers are switching each year to these varieties.

Russet rural has been the predominant variety in Michigan for many years. Six years ago more than 80 percent of Michigan's potato crop was of this dark-skinned variety. This year the acreage in Russet rural potatoes may be as low as 60 percent of the entire crop.

Farmers like Russet rural, a variety originated by George Priestly in Kalkaska county, Mich. in 1912, because of its ability to produce a crop in dry years and its moderate resistance to potato scab, a soil disease it has been difficult to eradicate in Michigan.

But the premium price paid for the white-skinned varieties has shown the Michigan potato producer he can afford to grow the Chippewa, Katahdin and Sebago varieties. These varieties are

Michigan Leads in Number of Big Game Animals in Nation

Michigan's stock of big game animals has increased considerably, according to conservation department game men, even since the 1946 count by the federal Fish and Wildlife Service that ranked Michigan at the top of the national list in big game abundance.

The 1946 summary, just released, credits Michigan with 872,700 whitetail deer—more than a sixth of the national total. But state game men more recently have estimated the Michigan herd at one million animals.

The 1946 estimate of 600 moose on Isle Royale has since been revised upward to 700 by national park authorities on the basis of an aerial survey. The state's elk herd is believed to be about the same now as two years ago, when it was estimated at 250.

Black bear also are believed more abundant now than two years ago when the Michigan bear population was estimated at 7,100, but no numerical estimate of the current population is available.

Other states having large populations of big game animals in the 1946 federal count, following Michigan in the order of big game abundance are: Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Texas, Minnesota, California, Colorado, Wyoming, Maine, New York and Oregon.

Chicago Artist Visits Old Home

Nadeau, Mich.—Roy Duchateau, 46, who operates a commercial art shop at 520 North Michigan avenue, Chicago, came to Nadeau to attend the funeral of his brother-in-law, Lawrence Delaunelle, of Nathan. Roy spent a few days at his former home on a farm west of Nadeau with relatives.

Mr. Duchateau has been a commercial artist for 20 years. He was formerly employed by the Chicago Tribune, but now works through advertising agencies for many publications and advertisers. His art work has appeared in practically all National magazines, including the Saturday Evening Post, Look, Life and Liberty.

Last year Roy did some art work that was used to advertise the Kaiser and Frazier cars.

bringing as much as 30 to 35 cents a hundredweight more than the dark-skinned russets.

Moore said that by proper rotation of land and disinfection of the seed before planting, much of the scab problem is being eliminated. The expert said growers who use good production practices will find they can grow the white-skinned potatoes at a profit.

Lake Shore Plant Now In Production On Cement Mixers

Now in full production on the unit, the Lake Shore Engineering Company, through its Service and Supply Division, will in the next week or 10 days formally "unveil" the new Rex-16S cement-mixer which it is producing, largely from parts manufactured at Iron Mountain and at Marquette for distribution by the Chain Belt Company, of Milwaukee. Ten units, of an order of 150, have already been assembled and others are on the line at the company's plant in Kingsford.

Lake Shore also has exclusive distributing rights on the mixer for upper Michigan.

In the near future, trucks carrying mixers, mounted for display, will be sent out over the Peninsula, as part of the "unveiling" ceremony. Descriptive literature will be distributed by company representatives accompanying each display.

Fifteen men, including seven welders, are now employed full time on this assembly job in the Kingsford plant.

Not all parts of the mixer, however, are manufactured by Lake Shore. Wheels, tires, dish-heads and the four-cylinder, air-cooled gasoline engines for the unit, as well as other parts, are shipped in from Milwaukee, Chicago northern Ohio, Detroit and elsewhere, for the assembly job. Steel plates for the drums, manufactured at the Marquette plant of Lake Shore, are shipped here for cutting and bending to shape. Spray and dipping booths have been set up, to finish the unit in light yellow.

Beer Drinking

March 26, 1948

I append herewith a statement that I would like to have (and I am sure many other people) answered objectively. Let us have no beating around the bush. Let us face the facts as they are.

"The effect of the war on American liquor drinking is summarized in a report by Dr. E. M. Jelinek of Yale University. Drinkers in the United States were estimated to have been 42,900,000 in 1940. By 1945 the number had soared to 58,250,000. Liquor consumption rose proportionately. Americans in 1945, on the per capita average, drank approximately two gallons of hard liquor (whisky, gin, brandy) slightly more than one gallon of wine, and 26 gallons of beer. This enormous drinking produced 750,000 chronic alcoholics, more than 1,000 for every 100,000 of the adult American population. Today a large proportion of chronic alcoholics are women. While war excited to loiter on the premises. Herbert Westlund, Rock, charged with selling on credit.

ment, overcrowding, worries and fears, abnormal living conditions and widespread abandonment of moral standards, were in part responsible for this appalling increase in American drinkers, the ominous fact is that the return of peace has witnessed no decline in drinking. When the American people were persuaded in 1933 to repeal the prohibition amendment, they never imagined that 12 years later 58,250,000 people among them would be classified as drinkers. The corresponding increase in immorality, crime, accidents, drunken driving fatalities, overcrowded prisons and hospitals, and other social effects are beyond calculation. Glibly the politicians promised that prohibition repeal would result in sobriety and moderation. The report of a Yale professor convincingly proves how shamefully the American people were deluded." (Quoted from MISSIONS — a Northern Baptist Periodical).

Long-Bristled Brush Used For Headache Relief

Ever hear of a "headache brush"? One that not only brushes away scalp tensions but whips up luster in hair?

This dual function is claimed for a hand-made brush of satinwood bristled with whalebone, which is back in circulation after a wartime absence. The extraordinarily long, firm and resilient bristles used for the unique brush comes from the jawbone of a whale.

Headache relief is obtained from the brush when its bristles are gently pressed into the scalp and rotated in a circular hand motion—a type of massage which stimulates circulation and banishes tensions.

High luster is coaxed out of hair by unusually thick bristles which are long enough—they measure more than two inches—to penetrate the most luxuriant mop.

TALK MARCH 31Far East Question To Be Discussed

"Dangers in the Far East," will be discussed by Dr. Manfred C. Vernon, of the University of Michigan at the assembly room of the junior high school next Wednesday evening.

This will be the second of a series of lectures sponsored by the extension department of the University of Michigan elaborating on the theme "The United States in World Affairs."

Dr. Vernon received his university training at Cologne, Berlin and the Hague and holds degrees of a degree of doctor of laws from the University of Berlin. He has lived in a number of European countries, notably Germany, Belgium and Holland and has also traveled extensively on the continent lecturing on international relations and problems of government.

Dr. Vernon came to the United States in 1939. During the war he saw service in the Pacific area in 1944 and 1945. He participated in the invasion of Leyte in the Philippines and was also in New Guinea and for a period taught in the army college in Manila. After his return to this country, he attended Stanford University, where he was working on a doctorate in comparative government.

He is planning on traveling throughout Latin America this summer.

Interest in these courses has far exceeded the expectation of the sponsors. About seventy-five have enrolled for the five lecture course. Those who wish to enroll for the remainder of the course may do so by attending the lecture next Wednesday or conferring with Supt. A. F. Hall in the meantime.

"BENEFICIAL" CYCLONES
Cyclones are largely beneficial, not destructive. The cyclone, not the hurricane, is a broad, slowly rotating mass of air, covering hundreds of square miles, and the mother of our life-sustaining rains.

David A. Shinar
Married Sunday
At East Lansing

At a ceremony performed Easter Sunday, March 28, in East Lansing, Miss Margaret Weekley, of Varnville, S. C., and David A. Shinar, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Shinar, Manistique, were united in marriage. Dr. Julius Fischbach, of the First Baptist church of Lansing, officiated at the 4 o'clock service which took place in the McCune chapel of the People's Church.

Miss Weekley is a graduate of Winthrop College, the South Carolina College for Women, at Rock Hill, and the past year has been employed as dietitian at Snyder-Phelps Hall at Michigan State college in East Lansing.

Mr. Shinar, a veteran of World War II during which he served in the European theatre, recently received his master's degree in business administration at the University of Michigan. He has a position with the American National Bank in Kalamazoo.

They will be at home at the Woodward Apartments, 836 West North St., in Kalamazoo after April 1.

High School Groups
To Stage Carnival
Saturday Evening

All ages over the way the carnival, to be held in the new gym next Saturday evening, is taking shape, groups making up the various high school activities who are sponsoring the carnival are enthusiastically calling upon the public to come and share the merriment.

There will be an auction sale of either antique or useful articles sponsored by the high school bands. There will be a stand dispensing cool drinks, conducted by the staff of the Emerald, the high school year book. There will be a lot of — call 'em side shows for want of a better name — such as the house of fun, the hermit's cave and other devices designed purely for entertainment purposes. The Gypsy Tea Room, where light lunches will be served will transform the Home Ec room into a place of romance and mystery. There will be a photo studio, Monte Carlo, (strictly legal but lots of fun) and scores of other innovations designed to provide enjoyment, lots of noise and incidentally make a few checkles for the student activities groups.

Also, staged as the big evening spectacle, like the grand stand show at a fair will be a vaudeville show.

Cabbage cooked in a steamer or in a pressure saucepan keeps about 70 per cent of its Vitamin C.

CANCER DRIVE
STARTS APRIL 1Donation Containers Are Placed In Stores

Red, white and Blue containers to hold coin donations are being placed at vantage points in stores throughout the county by the American Cancer Society.

This means is one way the society is employing in helping to realize the funds this cause is expecting from the residents of Manistique and Schoolcraft county.

Printed on these containers is the grim information that "every 3 minutes someone dies of cancer." It is this situation that the American Cancer Society is endeavoring to combat. Mrs. J. J. Herbert, chairman of the drive here, states.

This impressive information about the ravages of cancer is also being spread through the circulation through the schools of book marks that show through a picture drawn by Rockwell Kent what may not be fully visualized through words.

The drive in Schoolcraft county will open officially on Thursday, April 1.

Sponsors of the drive here state that for the time being, the fight against cancer is still largely in its formative stage. The number of people afflicted with the disease is so great and the requirements of the cases so varied, that the campaign against the scourge at this stage must, of necessity, be confined largely to research work.

In time there will be clinics, somewhat in the same nature of the familiar chest clinics and arrangements for treatment of the disease when found in its primary stage. A portion of these funds will be used to take care of these eventualities.

Circumstances beyond the control of the Skating Club delayed the presentation of the prizes. Infant Victim
Of Cottage Fire
Buried Saturday

Commitment services of William, the infant son of Mrs. Bert Formwalt were held at Fairview cemetery Saturday morning. The Rev. Fr. E. H. Behrendsen conducted the rites.

The child was burned to death Thursday evening when fire destroyed the cottage in which Mrs. Formwalt and her children lived. Mrs. Formwalt and her children, Mary and Phillip were severely burned and are being treated at the Shaw hospital, but are recovering.

Mrs. Lottie Weber, county welfare agent, reports that clothing practically sufficient to the needs of the family have been supplied through personal donations and through the local chapter of the Red Cross. A few items, such as bedding, a stove and a few other household items would be gladly received, but these will not be needed until quarters are found for the family. Anyone having items to donate, may leave word with Mrs. Weber, and the offerings will be collected later on.

Former Resident

Mrs. A. E. Clark, 74, a former resident of Manistique, died Saturday noon at St. Joseph's hospital, Tacoma, Washington, according to word received here by her sister, Mrs. George Wilson. Her sisters, Mrs. Emma Smith and Mrs. Catherine Moore, of San Francisco, Calif., were with her when she died.

Later, she went to Manistique where she was employed for some time and in 1893, was united in marriage to Albert Edwin Clark. They resided in Manistique until about thirty-five years ago when they moved to Sumner, Washington. In 1943 the couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. Clark passed away three years ago.

Penniless Spinners
Have $20,000 Hidden

Detroit (AP)—Two aged spinners, believed to be penniless, were revealed to have $20,000 hidden and forgotten amid relics of the past in their humble suburban cottage.

Their sister, Mrs. Caroline Ledyard, lay unburied for five days after her death March 12, presumably because they could not afford to bury her.

Irving Little, a Warren township official, said he guaranteed the funeral expense and then approached the sisters, Mary Stein, 75, and Frieda, 73.

"I asked them if they had any money," Little said, "and they said oh, yes, they had some money but they didn't know where it was."

With their permission, he said he rummaged through the house and found $13,000 in government bonds plus several thousand dollars in securities.

The cottage was crammed with cardboard boxes, books, a milk can full of rain water for washing, washbuds, wood scraps, coal buckets and empty tin cans. It was heated by a coal stove.

Little was named administrator in an attempt to catalogue the spinners' small fortune.

The Azores are known as the "Islands of the Hawks."

DRUNK DRIVE
PAYS $50 FINERapid River Man Strikes
Car Of Escanaban

John L. Kay of Rapid River paid a fine of $50 and costs of $33.50 he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicants following arraignment before Justice A. T. Sohberg over the weekend.

In addition his operator's license was revoked.

Kay was involved in an auto accident with another car driven by Modist J. Hurthibise of Escanaba on Highways US 2-41 within the Gladstone city limits. The police report indicated Kay drove on the wrong side of the highway at the time the autos collided.

Damage to Kay's auto was set at $200 while damage to the other was estimated at half that.

None was injured.

Over the weekend a traffic ticket was issued to Richard Zimmerman of Escanaba for driving a vehicle with defective brakes and without an operator's license and he is scheduled to appear before Justice Henry Ranguette within the next ten days.

A ticket also was issued to Robert Anderson of Wells for failure to stop for a through highway and he will appear before Justice O. C. Estenson.

POSTAGE RATE
RAISE OUTLINED

Washington, (AP)—A government-promised boost in most postal rates went before a House committee Thursday.

Postmaster General Jesse M. Donlon recommended an increase in all rates except those on (A) first class mail, (B) airmail; (C) publications distributed in the same county where they are issued.

The proposal, sent to chairman Rees (R-Kas) of the House post office and civil service committee, said postal expenses are "exceeding revenues at an ever-increasing pace." But Rees showed little enthusiasm over the proposed boost.

The proposed rate raises include:

The price of post cards—now one cent—would go to two cents.

Newspapers and magazines distributed outside the county they are published in would cost from one cent to one and one-half cents per pound more to mail—except for publications of non-profit religious, educational, scientific, philanthropic, agricultural, labor

SHE'S NO LEMON—If you can take your eyes off Pat Becker long enough, consider the fruit on the tree. They're lemons! The Ponderosa variety grows as big as grapefruit down in Lake Wales, Fla.

Strong Winds Tear
Away Part of Roof

Heavy winds which swept Gladstone Friday night and Saturday tore away a portion of the roof of a toolshed on the Donna Barron in the St. Nicholas colony.

Past of a maple tree at the Sidney Ridings home also went with the wind. Fortunately in falling it missed the house.

or fraternal groups.

Third class mail, which includes circulars, books and catalogs—increases ranging from one-half cent to four cents.

Parcel post—a scale of changes ranging from 15 to 25 cents per pound in place of the present scale ranging from 8 to 16 cents per pound.

Special delivery—fees of 25 to 40 cents instead of the present 13 to 25 cents on first-class mail; and fees of 35 to 50 cents instead of the present 17 to 35 cents on other than first-class mail.

Money orders—a fee range of 10 to 35 cents instead of the present range of 6 to 22 cents.

Other increases would affect postal notes, registry fees, postal insurance—a scale of 6 to 65 cents instead of the present 3 to 25 cents, and C. O. D. service.

NEGAUNEE MAN
ADMITS THEFTCracks After Undergoing
Lie-Detector Test

Several cases of 14-months standing were solved last Saturday when Joseph DeLongchamp of Negaunee submitted to polygraph or "lie-detector" tests at the Michigan State Police headquarters in Marquette.

They included a breaking and entering of the Ruhonen garage where tools and wheels were taken Jan. 17, 1947 and also the theft of a number of fans from autos around Rock the same night.

DeLongchamp was picked up for questioning in connection with a series of breaking and enterings in Marquette county. After submitting to the polygraph tests he cracked and admitted many of them.

Sgt. W. W. Wixom was at Marquette and when questioned DeLongchamp also admitted the two cases reported to the local post.

He claimed Rudolph Wittala of North Lake was with him and involved in the two cases. Wittala is now serving time in Ionia on a morals charge conviction.

In Memoriam
In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Eugene J. Gardner, who was killed in action in Italy, four years ago, March 28, 1944.
The silent night is lonely
And there is no golden dawn,
Because we must remember, dear,
That you are really gone.
And if we call your name we hear
The sound of emptiness.
The happiness we knew,
And that our only world was one
In which we lived with you.
There is no breath of fragrance in
The flowers that are pressed,
And if we call your name we hear
The sound of emptiness.
We roam the house from room to room
And try to find you everywhere.
But there is nothing we can do
To bring you back again.
We have to tell ourselves
That you are really gone.
And only ask the Lord
For strength to carry on.
Sadly missed by
Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Gardner and Family.

Swedish Visitor Is Speaker At Kiwanis Meeting

Sweden is greatly concerned about the Soviet Russia expansion program for it is regarded as a definite threat to the Scandinavian countries' welfare, Bertil Modine of Upsala, Sweden, said in an interesting talk at the meeting of the Kiwanis club today.

Modine, who is associated with his father in the automobile and farm implement business, came to this country last July to study American business methods. He will remain here a couple months.

Sweden signed a five-year trade pact with Russia that has proved to be of little advantage to her, Modine said. Before the war, Sweden traded extensively with England, the United States and other countries, but since the signing of the Russian agreement most of its goods go to Russia.

Trade with the other countries, however, has dropped to about one-tenth of the prewar figure.

Many goods are still rationed in Sweden, and of late items taken not long ago off the ration list have been restored.

The Communists are not a serious political factor in Sweden as yet, Modine said. They have about fifteen seats of the 420 in the Swedish parliament. The Social Democratic party, dominant political group, has been swinging to the left of late, however.

Frank Hatch of Marquette, lieutenant governor of Kiwanis International, also spoke at the meeting.

CERTAIN VETO ON TAX SLASH BILL AWAITED

gency arises later they will vote to increase taxes. Opponents are contending the tax slash will put the treasury back in the red ink again and threaten the financial integrity of the government.

The measure would cut the taxes of all the 52,000,000 income taxpayers, removing 7,400,000 low-income persons from the tax rolls completely.

Withholding from wages and salaries for taxes, would be reduced May 1.

The bill makes the tax reductions effective as of last January 1. This means that taxpayers would get refunds next year on overpayments between January 1 and May 1.

Voters in Romania Favor Communist Bloc By 93 Percent

Bucharest, March 29 (P)—The latest count today in Romania's national election showed 93 per cent of the voters favoring the Communist-led government bloc.

Partial, unofficial return from 17 of Romania's 59 election districts showed that 1,926,565 of the 2,122,347 (Million) registered voters in those precincts cast ballots yesterday. Of that number, 1,703,651 voted for candidates of the government bloc headed by Premier Petru Gheorghe.

Returns from Bucharest are not tabulated yet.

Yesterday's balloting, for 414 members of a new national assembly, is expected to clinch the far left's control over Romania. Deputies elected will consider a constitution creating a Socialist-Communist state.

Briefly Told

Brotherhood Meeting—Immanuel Lutheran Brotherhood will meet at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in the church parlors, with Clarence Gerdeen and George Jensen, hosts. A program will be followed by a social hour.

Planted Trout Fail To Survive Winter

Lansing, (P)—A compilation of voluntary creel census has re-emphasized that planted trout rarely survive a winter in the wild.

The census, kept by guides, cabin owners, fishermen and fishing clubs, covered 2,379 angling days on the Au Sable above and including the south branch, the conservation department said.

Of 1,114 hatchery brook trout caught in 1947, 1,110 were planted that year and four in 1946.

Of 265 hatchery rainbows, 256 were planted in 1947, nine the previous year.

Of 833 hatchery brown trout, 812 were planted the same year, and 26 in 1946.

All fish planted in the two years were fin-clipped for identification.

Poland's Lawyers Are Told to Move

Warsaw, Poland, (P)—The 9,000 lawyers in Poland are going to be re-shuffled and distributed more evenly.

Under plans of the ministry of justice, districts short on lawyers will get a supply of legal talent from cities and towns having too much of it.

The ministry says barristers will be given a choice to choose their new place of abode but those who balk will face compulsory transfers.

Although the ocean holds 10,000,000,000 tons of gold, no commercially profitable way has been found to extract it.

BOARD WANTS TESTIMONY OF MINE LEADER

Lewis has proposed $100 monthly payments to miners 60 or older with 20 years' service. He said the mine owners "dishonored" their agreement by not agreeing on a payment method by now. Van Horn says the amount proposed by Lewis is too high.

Pension eligibility also is in dispute. Lewis wants it to apply to all his union members upon reaching retirement age. But Van Horn has contended it is illegal to pay pensions to miners whose employers haven't been contributing to the welfare fund.

Nine days after the miners walked out on March 15, the White House invoked emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act. Naming the inquiry board, headed by Federal Judge Sherman Minton, was the first step.

The board is trying to get the facts to report them to Mr. Truman as the first step before the government can apply for a court order to end the strike.

Lewis won a 72-hour delay last Friday. He passed up a board invitation, saying he wanted to study "legal matters involved." Minton then set the 10 a. m. deadline.

Black Changes His Mind On Diversion Of State Sales Tax

Port Huron, Mich., March 29 (P)—Attorney General Eugene F. Black, reversing his previous stand, threw his support to the sales tax diversion amendment today.

With an assertion that he wished to "confess error," Black said he would back the amendment if it came up again for a vote.

He assailed what he called legislative domination by "hide-bound elders and demanded that the legislature avoid "unmoral evasions" of its duty.

Black made known his reversal of sentiment in a letter to the Port Huron Times-Herald.

"I wish to confess my error in voting against the diversion amendment," he said. "I can see now why the people in utter desperation have turned to constitutional appropriation of public money."

The amendment requires that 44 per cent of sales tax revenue be expended for the state's school system.

Rotary Club Hears Major E. J. Leer

Major Edwin J. Leer, in charge of recruiting for the U. S. Army in the Upper Peninsula, today noon told the Escanaba Rotary club that the United States has 325,000 men on foreign service at the present time. This may "sound big," he said, but it is actually less than the total because about 100,000 men are in transit.

This country's foreign force is scattered from Germany and Austria across the Pacific ocean into Japan, China and Korea, he explained.

At the present time the U. S. Army is 170,000 men under its authorized strength, and the Navy is 60,000 men short, Major Leer pointed out. He cited the recent increases that have been ordered in the strength of the army, air corps, navy and marines, and described the recruiting organization established to bring in volunteers.

The War Department heads the recruiting organization, and the Upper Peninsula is attached to the district in the Fifth Army area.

Escanaba was recently made a central examining station for recruiting for the Army and Air Force.

The Navy and Marine Corps maintain separate recruiting stations.

Baruch Speaks Out For Draft and UMT At Senate Session

Washington, March 29 (P)—Bernard M. Baruch today urged prompt enactment of universal military training and selective service legislation as a means of achieving "the stability in the world" which lasting peace requires.

The financier and presidential adviser also called for an "economic mobilization plan," and said America's failure to muster all its resources now for peace would leave "no alternative but to mobilize for war" in the future.

Testifying before the Senate armed services committee, Baruch suggested the appointment of someone to "watch the impact upon our economy of the partial mobilization we are entering upon and to maintain a constant inventory, balancing all our growing commitments against our resources."

WORLD CRISIS AT HAND, SAYS POPE PIUS XII

tions of respect for religion, but then, alas, reveal themselves the deniers of that which is most sacred.

Planes Drop Handbills
"In your conscience there is no place for cowardice, for accommodation, for the irresolution of those who in this crucial hour believe they serve two masters."

"Your conscience knows that the realization of social justice and peace among nations can never be achieved or preserved if the eyes are closed to the light of Christ and the ears opened instead to the erroneous words of agitators who make the negation of Christ the cornerstone of their work."

He invited the world's people "to thoughts and designs of peace" and closed by pronouncing upon the throng "our paternal apostolic Benediction."

The Pope stood in the center balcony above a huge papal flag. His gestures were emphatic. His voice was vibrant and forceful. Twenty loudspeakers, jutting from windows of the basilica, magnified his words.

Three light planes roared low over the crowd dropping thousands of handbills. Most of the bills bore the one letter "V"—understood variously to mean vita (life), victory and vote.

Some carried a likeness of Giuseppe Garibaldi, Italian patriot, which, turned upside down, became a glaring Stalin. The Communist-dominated popular front has taken Garibaldi's picture for its emblem.

Premier Alcide De Gasperi, head of the anti-Communist Christian Democrats, was cheered when he arrived to hear the Pope speak.

The surge of Romans toward the Vatican left suburbs virtually deserted. In the big stone oval facing St. Peter's, they joined visitors from all over the globe.

There were priests from every part of the world—black ones from Africa, slant-eyed ones from the Orient, red-robed ones from Germany. They were diplomats with their ladies in gay Easter dress, tourists from northern Europe and America, WACS from Germany.

Standing in well ordered lines were the youth of Catholic Action, the church's 4,000,000-strong striking force in its new crusade. Their banners proclaimed, "Who is Italian Loves the Pope," "Who Wants Peace is With the Pope." They shouted rhythmically, like college cheering squads, "Viva Il Papa."

Through the afternoon, they roamed the streets arm in arm, cheering De Gasperi and the Pope.

DEAL INDICATED IN GOP CAMPS

Taft And Dewey May
Back Dark Horse

BY JACK BELL

Washington, March 29 (P)—Friends of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Senator Robert A. Taft are reported agreed today that they will try to prevent any long deadlock at the GOP nominating convention.

The two presidential aspirants are known to have discussed this situation some time ago. They met briefly in New York but had no time then to talk turkey.

Nevertheless, it is said to be generally understood in both camps that if the two candidates lock horns so tightly that neither can pull away, they will sit down and try for a compromise.

None of the politicians who know both men can see either stepping aside for the other. The effort, then, would be to agree on a third man acceptable to both and do it quickly enough to prevent a rank outsider from walking off with the nomination.

The two possibilities most frequently mentioned in such a compromise are Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan and House Speaker Joseph Martin of Massachusetts.

Indications are that neither Taft nor Dewey would be willing to go for Gen. Douglas MacArthur even if the Far Eastern commander shows wide strength in primaries.

It has been estimated that Americans put more than ten times as much money into gambling machines in 1941 as they did in 1929.
